PHOENIX PROJECT

FRIDAYS, 2:45 P.M.

Every five hundred years according to legend, the phoenix bird of Arabia was burned to ashes on the altar of the sacred temple, then miraculously was reborn and restored to life. Like the legendary bird, the Phoenix Project at the University of Michigan was created as a living memorial to those who died in World War II, a symbol of man's triumph over destruction and the good that may rise from the ashes of the holocaust at Hiroshima and Nagasaki. This new program will be concerned with the humanitarian aspects of the Phoenix Project, the peacetime applications of atomic energy, and the Project's avowed purpose of becoming "a living, timeless, creative force for peace." Members of the Michigan faculty, students, and guests will discuss the influence of atomic research upon all fields of human endeavor: the physical and social sciences, medicine, and the law.

THE UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN

105th COMMENCEMENT

Rain or shine, WUOM microphones will be at the University's 105th Commencement on June 11 to bring you a first-hand report on the pageant which climaxes the entire school year. With over thirty-eight hundred students on the tentative list for graduation, the Commencement exercises this year promise to be the largest and most colorful in University history. The record to date was established in 1948 when 3,260 men and women received degrees.

The main Commencement address will be given by Bruce D. Bromley, Justice of the New York Court of Appeals and a 1914 graduate of the University of Michigan. Justice Bromley, addressing the graduating class and the thousands of parents, friends, and well-wishers expected at the ceremony, will speak on "The Conservative Role In America." Rev. J. Edgar Edwards of Willow Village will give the invocation and benediction.

Twelve hundred and fifteen students, the largest single group, will receive degrees from the College of Literature, Science, and the Arts. In all, 2,910 men and women will receive bachelor degrees on Commencement June 11. An additional 972 candidates, robed in the traditional colors of their special fields of study, will receive formal recognition for advanced work.

WUOM will begin broadcasting the Commencement ceremony at 5 p.m. Saturday.

On Friday, June 10, alumni who have returned for class reunions will gather at 9 p.m. on the steps of the General Library for the traditional "Alumni Sing." Donn Chown, continuity editor of Station WJR, will act as master of ceremonies. If conditions permit, WUOM will pick up the songfest and broadcast it for your entertainment.

STUDIO A — AND AUDIENCE ROOM

SHINE — FERRY FIELD

ALOHA !

Each week WUOM offers entertaining programs of general educational value prepared by foreign organizations. We help you to become a "world traveler" right in your own home.

How about a no-expense trip through Canada? Interested? Then listen to "The Beaver's Tale," Wednesdays at 4:15, a program prepared by the Canadian Broadcasting Service.

Holland and the Low Countries are separated from your living room by a flick of a switch at the right time: Tuesdays at 5:15. A brand new series for June titled, "Holland—Today and Tomorrow," will bring you first-hand information on the Dutch and their influence in Michigan and America.

La Belle France is a tourist Mecca in this postwar travel boom. And the French Broadcasting Service—through WUOM—offers you ample opportunity for a visit the easy way. If you believe you can best understand a people through their music, tune in "Five Centuries of French Music" (Wednesdays at 3:30) and "Songs of France" (Thursdays at 5:15).

And of course you want a few language lessons during your summer "tour," so you can startle the folks back home with exotic phrases and accents. Join the WUOM classroom for "French on the Air" each Monday at 5:15.
Bon voyage!

UNESCO WORLD REVIEW
THURSDAYS, 4 P.M.

JAMES SCHIAVONE
Chief Announcer

gram will be under the general supervision of James Schiavone, chief announcer at WUOM.

Co-operation among nations is the theme of this new program which tells of the activities of the United Nations Committee for Education, Science, and Culture. International news items contributed by UNESCO will be supplemented by interviews with men and women closely associated with the organization and its efforts to further the cause of world peace. Kathleen N. Lardie of Detroit, U. S. delegate to the Beirut conference, will discuss her experiences, and members of the University of Michigan Campus UNESCO Council will outline the contributions which students and the general public can make toward the support of this world organization. The program will be under the general supervision of James Schiavone, chief announcer at WUOM.

MICHIGAN LUMBERJACK BALLADS

WILLIAM BENDER, JR.
Continuity Editor

A newcomer to the Broadcasting Service staff, script editor William Bender, Jr., brings his hobby and his guitar to the WUOM microphone during June. The hobby—folksongs; and the program—“Lumberjack Ballads,” at 2:30 Fridays.

Material for the series will be drawn from E. C. Beck's “Lore of the Lumber Camps,” a recent publication from the University of Michigan Press. A folksinger of some note, Bender's “Rocky Mountain Campfire” series is beamed to the southern hemisphere on the “Voice of America,” and his album of traditional western songs is already a collector's item. He is best known for his frontier songs and Mexican ballads. Lumberjack songs are something new and, as we go to press, he is still trying to find tunes to fit the pinewoods lyrics collected by Beck.

“BOOKS BY RADIO”

MONDAY THROUGH FRIDAY, 5 P.M.

“Cheaper By The Dozen,” the sparkling adventure story of the family of an efficiency engineer, is the first book selected for WUOM's new series—Books by Radio. Written by a University of Michigan graduate, Frank B. Gilbreth, Jr., '33, in collaboration with his sister, “Cheaper By The Dozen” will be aired in a series of daily fifteen-minute programs beginning June 1 at 5 p.m. (Monday through Friday).

The complete text will be presented over a period of weeks and each program will include a chapter or episode complete in itself.

Author Frank Gilbreth was an editor of the Michigan Daily during his undergraduate days and later worked as a correspondent for the New York Herald Tribune and the Associated Press. He and his sister Ernestine are two of the twelve children of Dr. Lillian M. Gilbreth and the late Frank Gilbreth, originator of the “motion study” and other methods of industrial efficiency.

The book has kept close to the top of best-seller lists—proof that fabulous family adventures make fine reading. We think you'll find they make good listening as well. So join the WUOM audience at 5 p.m. Monday through Friday beginning June 1st.
